(Particularly for SCHIENE-A/-AC/-TS/-MC floor profiles)

Schlüter-Systems Ltd develop products to the most exacting standards but their durability is reliant on correct and appropriate installation, usage, and maintenance.

Tile adhesive and grout should be immediately removed from all visible surfaces using clean water.

Visible surfaces may be susceptible to scratches so acidic, alkaline or abrasive cleaning chemicals should not be used.

Whilst anodising and powder-coating create a hard, strong and decorative finish to profiles they can still chip or mark. Careful consideration should be given to the environment the profile is being used in. For example, an anodised or powder-coated profile subject to bare feet walking on it in a bathroom floor will be much less likely to be marked or scratched than the same finish on a profile in an office, a hotel reception, a shopping mall or an airport. Care should therefore be taken to not subject profiles to undue force, unreasonable impact or excessive foot or vehicular traffic.

Schlüter-Systems Ltd cannot take responsibility for, or warranty, chips, marks and scratches appearing on profiles because of normal wear and tear or inappropriate usage. It is always the responsibility of the installer to ensure the product and its finish is suitable for the intended use.

Finishes which are not part of Schlüter-Systems' standard range have not been subject to the usual exacting test procedures and are therefore excluded from Schlüter's Standard (5 Year Limited) Product Warranty.
